RESIDENCE

A CITY IN NATURE
A HOME IN A GARDEN
A TOWN IN A PARK

Thoughtfully designed as a nature-inspired extension of Tampines' natural landscape, PARKTOWN Residence spans 50,700 sqm on Tampines Street 62, offering 1,193 homes ranging from 1-bedroom + study to 5-bedroom.

With direct access to a Retail Mall, MRT Station, Bus Interchange, Green Boulevard, Hawker Centre, and Community Club, it sets a new benchmark for next-generation living.

INSPIRED BY NATURE

The name Tampinus River appeared over 200 years ago in Franklin and Jackson's map of Singapore. It is likely derived from the tall tampines trees that once grew along its banks. Known for their strength, hardness, and durability, these hardwood trees were highly valued by the local community.

In its early days, Tampines was home to extensive rubber plantations. Tampines Road, from which Tampines Town takes its name, was also referred to in Hokkien as kam kong sai kong khei ki, meaning 'beside the creek at Kampong Saigon'.

MODEL TOWNSHIP

As Tampines evolved, it exemplified Singapore's forward-thinking urban planning and community-driven development. In 1979, it became the first town designed with a precinct planning concept, fostering neighbourliness through thoughtful layouts.

This pioneering approach earned global recognition in 1992 when Tampines received the United Nations' World Habitat Award for its outstanding high-density, high-quality housing that strengthened social bonds. In 2010, it became Singapore's first cycling town, with dedicated paths connecting residential areas to MRT stations, community centres, and other key amenities.
